Assignment III

1. Compute the storage yield function for a single reservoir system by the mass diagram and modified sequent peak methods given the following sequences of annual flows: (7, 3, 5, 1, 2, 5, 6, 3, 4).

2. Determine the required capacity (K) of the reservoir for each of the given annual yield, given the inflow data for a 6 year repetitive sequence, as given in the table. Neglecting evaporation loses, plot the storage yield function if yield is: 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Use LP
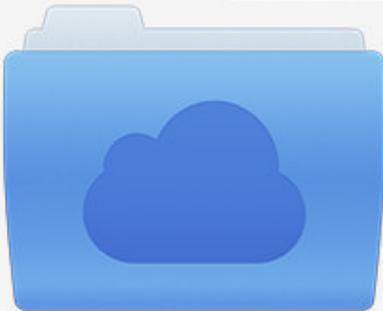

Year	1	2	3	4	5	6
Inflow	16	8	12	4	8	12

3. A reservoir is constructed on a river for supplying the power load of a city located near the river and water demands of the city. The water that is released for power generation can also be used for supplying water to the city. The required instream flow is estimated to be 1 million m3 each month. The total capacity of the reservoir is 10 million m3• Maximum monthly release from the reservoir is limited to 7 million m3• The table below shows the monthly inflows to the reservoir and benefits of power generation and water supply. The reservoir storage on January 1 is considered to be 5 million m3. Find the optimal releases using linear programming.

4.
